Quarterly manager commentary

Market update

Global share markets continued to weaken materially over the second quarter of 2022. Inflation continued to be a dominant theme for markets, with investors focused on rising cash rates as central banks looked to tame persistently high inflation. At the June meeting, the US lifted the Federal funds rate to 1.75 per cent, the largest interest rate increase since 1994 and signalled it would continue lifting rates this year at the most rapid pace in decades. Locally, the RBA delivered consecutive cash rate hikes during the quarter, 0.25 per cent in May, and a greater than expected 0.5 per cent in June, the first rates hikes since 2010. Bonds, typically a stable asset class, suffered because of the high inflation and central bank rate hikes.

As a result of rising cash rates, US consumer sentiment fell to record lows and home sales rolled over. Meanwhile real disposable incomes were weighed down by increasing fuel and food costs, leading to a fall in consumer spending. This contributed to an estimated negative GDP data for the June quarter. Further softer economic data and the flow-on effect to commodity prices prompted markets to re-assess the degree of policy tightening and to factor in the US Fed easing rates in 2023, which provided some support to shares later in the period.

Higher inflation reflected a combination of rising energy/commodity prices and higher wages growth. Energy prices were pushed higher over the quarter due to the ongoing Russian-Ukraine conflict. Adding further pressure, European leaders agreed to ban 90 per cent of Russian crude oil by the end of the year. This led to increased worries about the potential impact on inflation and growth deteriorating further. Higher wages growth reflected very tight labour markets, with unemployment falling in the US and Australia to ultra-low levels.

The Australia share market outperformed its global counterparts over the quarter. Up until the end, strong commodity prices supported the materials and energy-heavy Australian share market. Meanwhile, the banking sector struggled as investors focussed on the potential impact of rapid increases in mortgage rates on house prices and households. Economically, consumer sentiment dropped to its lowest level since the early stages of the pandemic under the weight of rising mortgage rates.

Portfolio Update

We remain comfortable with the current structure of this portfolio. Consequently, no changes have been made this quarter.

The best performing funds over the quarter were Man AHL Alpha (AUD) – Class B, Ardea Real Outcome Fund, and Pental Short Term Income Securities Fund. Notable contributors to Man's outperformance were shorts in credit and long positions in commodities, while Ardea's outperformance can be attributed mainly to its exposure to interest rate options and associated hedging activity to manage the impact of duration. Meanwhile, Pental performed in line with expectations through the recent market volatility given the strategy conservatively allocates to credit to enhance returns above cash.

The worst performing funds were Bennelong Ex-20 Australian Equities Fund, Lennox Australian Small Companies Fund, and SGH ICE. Bennelong struggled considering its Growth/Quality bias in an environment where Value and Cyclical outperformed, while Lennox underperformed given it typically excludes Resources stocks which have rallied over the past year and are a significant portion of the small cap index. SGH ICE's struggles were due to its significant allocation to small caps in an extreme risk-off environment.
